

MoveSavers.com launches to give the best deals on the products and services new home buyers and renters need for their new home

Consumer move portal MoveSavers.com has launched to give price-conscious consumers great values on the products and services they need for their new home. Visitors to the site will find familiar household brand names such as Comcast, Time Warner, Peapod, Budget and others, with many of the offers providing exclusive savings to MoveSavers members.

With a goal of saving money and saving time, MoveSavers is positioning the site to be the source for new homeowners. Whether that home is a new house, new apartment or new condo, the savings on moving products, services and suppliers provide a real value for all movers. Some of the moving services offered on the site include high speed internet service, cable tv, phone service, groceries, moving trucks and boxes, insurance and home improvement services.

The new site, developed by veterans of other online shopping sites and move-related services, also provides useful tips and tools to help new movers plan for their move, before and after the actual move date. This helpful moving advice, along with the savings and value from the move-related offers, is what sets MoveSavers apart from other move sites. MoveSavers is planning to be the one-stop shop for movers who know what they need and want a great deal.
